Incase of Cross currency transaction, it involves deal and thus conv-surtax is applicable on the highest INR value. Hence to derive the highest INR value the cross currency conversion surtax calculator is used. Please find below the process for the same.

1. The originating currency amount is converted into the destination currency amount through FX-Online
2. The originating amount and the destination amount is inputted in the calculator
3. The base rate (inward rate of that day) of originating currency and destination currency is inputted in the calculator in respective field
4. With the help of the amount and rate the INR value of the originating amount and destination amount is derived
5. The conversion surtax is calculated in INR from the highest INR value as per the slab defined for conversion surtax
6. Then purchase deal in fx-online is booked for that INR value
7. The foreign currency of that deal is deducted from the destination currency and the swift is sent for that balance amount
